

CARNEGIE GIVES $1,500 FOR ORGAN

Announcement Made by Pastor of West End Baptist Church.

IT WILL COST $3,500

Congregation Acts Quickly in Making Up Remainder of Sum Needed.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, 109 North Byramore Street, Petersburg, Va., April 17.—The Rev. A. R. Love, pastor of West End Baptist Church, made the pleasing announcement to his congregation on Sunday morning that Andrew Carnegie had made a contribution of $1,500 to the church for the purchase of a new pipe organ, the condition being that the congregation should raise a like amount. The organ is to cost $3,000 and its installation $500 additional.

Mr. Carnegie was written to a few days ago on the subject, the proposition being made to him that if he would give $1,500 the congregation would raise the rest. The answer came very promptly with the offer of the contribution of $1,500.

Pastor Love's announcement was received with great delight by the congregation, and before its dismissal a collection for the organ fund was taken up and the sum of $1,100 was subscribed. A committee was appointed to canvass for the remaining $400, and the $500 for the installation, and this sum was practically subscribed to-day.

The West End Baptist Church is one of the prettiest in the city, and its congregation one of the most active and progressive. It is located in West Washington Street in the factory district. It has a Sunday school of 450 and a large church membership.

It is said that during the past few years Mr. Carnegie has given over $1,000,000 to churches in this country for the purchase of pipe organs.

Thrown From Bicycle.

Percy Cottrell, about fifteen years old, son of Mrs. George Cottrell, on Harrison Street, was thrown from his bicycle on Canal Street this afternoon and severely injured. Young Cottrell is employed as a messenger boy at the Postal Telegraph office, and was riding on Canal Street when the accident happened. His wheel struck a rock and he was thrown, falling on his head and being rendered unconscious. He was taken to the hospital. The skull was not fractured, but he is suffering from concussion.

Escaped Convict Caught.

The police on Saturday night arrested John Myers, a negro fugitive from justice in North Carolina. In November last, after serving two years of a three years' sentence for highway robbery, Myers escaped from the guard of the convict road force, and was not heard of again until located in Petersburg. He was taken back to North Carolina last night.

Would-Be Murderer Arrested.

Sergeant Payne and Officer Goodwyn last evening arrested William Porter, a negro, on the charge of shooting with intent to kill. Porter was employed with a gang of laborers on the Belt Line Railroad, in Dinwiddie, in charge of Barney G. Stewart. Mr. Stewart was robbed, and Porter was suspected as the thief. When asked about it, Porter drew his pistol and shot Stewart, the ball penetrating the abdomen. The shooting occurred last December, and for weeks Stewart laid in the hospital in a critical condition. Recently he had recovered sufficiently to leave for his home in Arizona. Porter fled, and was not heard of until last evening. When the officers approached the house in which he was concealed he made a rush to escape, but was not quick enough.

At Blandford Church eighteen were received; at High Street twenty-two were taken in, and twenty-two at Washington Street Church.

News of South Richmond

South Richmond Bureau.

The Times-Dispatch.
1020 Hull Street.
Phone Madison 175.

Interrupted by the appearance of Patrolman Newman as they were about to kill William Minnis, colored, Richard and Thomas Redd, two negroes, began a sensational flight yesterday afternoon about 5:30 that led from Fifth and Hull Streets across May's Bridge and to Eighteenth and Main, where Thomas was finally caught. Richard Redd escaped for the time being. The larger negro, Tom, was captured through the strenuous pursuit of Billy Darling, a brawny South Richmonder, who, acting under the instructions of Officer Newman, gradually overhauled the negroes. The police say that both the men have served time in the State Penitentiary.

It is not known what grudge the two negroes held against Minnis, but it is believed that they desired to put him out of the way because of incriminating knowledge that he had of the two men's records. At least that is the construction Minnis puts on it, and from information he gave after the flight toward the bridge. It was Richard Redd who was wanted at Drake's Branch for horse stealing. The flight began in Minnis's house, where the Redd brothers were staying, and when the combatants had fought their way out to the street, a negro woman living in the house telephoned to the Third Police Station for an officer.

Saved Trouble There.
The two brothers were in the act of dragging Minnis to May's Bridge, saying that they were going to kill him and throw him into the river, when Patrolman Newman hove in sight and the fight turned into a rout. The flying negroes did not heed Newman's commands to halt, but taking advantage of the two squares' start which they had given toward the bridge, it was then that the officer deputized Darling, who was standing near, and the latter went in hot pursuit.

He was gaining on the two steadily until the Southern Railway freight depot was reached, on the north end of the bridge, when the fugitives dodged among the buildings along lower Cary Street and eluded Darling. Some one set the latter on their trail, however, and shielding himself behind a buggy, he crept close enough to Thomas on the corner of Eighteenth and Main to nab him. Once he had the fugitive, Darling was nearly mobbed by a crowd of negroes, who swarmed out of the neighboring houses and saloons, but the arrival of Patrolman Jacobini relieved the situation.

Redd was taken in the police patrol to the First Station, and from there to the Third, where he was looked up and ball refused him. He will have a preliminary hearing before Justice Maurice this morning in the Police Court, Part II. A warrant has been issued for his brother, Richard Redd.

Charles Harvey and Jessie Nelson, two negroes, were caught red-handed yesterday morning in a game of craps and arrested. They will appear in the Police Court, Part II, this morning.

Celebration Postponed.
By a change of plans has been decided that the annexation anniversary celebration will be held Wednesday night in the rooms of the Business Men's Club of South Richmond and Chesterfield, instead of last night, as was at first announced. Several speakers will deliver appropriate remarks on this occasion, and a delightful program has been arranged.

The feature of the celebration will be the presentation on the part of the Business Men's Club of a handsome set of silver to William F. Dabney, yesterday's manager of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, who did so much to further the cause of annexation.

Find Body of Child.
The constabulary of Chesterfield county are looking for the mother of a dead baby, which was found yesterday afternoon near Granite, Va. The news of the gruesome find was immediately telephoned to the Washington Ward Police Station, but as the matter was out of the jurisdiction of the Richmond police, the bodies turned over to the county authorities.

Two boys stumbled across the body of the child, and at first did not realize that it was dead. They ran for help, and several men in the neighborhood carried the lifeless body into a store at Granite, where it rested overnight. In case the mother of the child cannot be found the body will be buried at the expense of the county. The authorities at present are endeavoring to discover whether the child was murdered or died a natural death.

To Extend Campaign.
Finding Sunday night that they were within a few hundred dollars of the fund needed to pay off the indebtedness on the new Sunday school room, the board of the Decatur Street Methodist Church determined to extend the time of its campaign to Wednesday night, by which time it is believed the whole sum will be secured. In view of the fact that the board has determined to begin building of the new church, about May 1, it is especially desirable that the indebtedness on the Sunday school building should be paid off entirely before this new undertaking is begun.

The new church, which is to cost about $17,000, will be built on the southeastern corner of Ninth and Decatur Streets, and will front on the new Washington Park. Both the pastor, the Rev. G. T. Forrester, and the church board feel confident that the indebtedness can be paid off within the time allotted. A meeting of the board has been called for Wednesday night to count the money raised in the campaign and to settle definitely on the date of commencing work on the new church.

It is estimated that something in the neighborhood of 2,000 kids journeyed out to Forest Hill Park yesterday morning to take part in the great Easter egg hunt, and in addition there were several more thousand pleasure-seekers that celebrated Easter Monday by spending the day in the woods of Forest Hill. The kids swarmed over the grass and shrubbery in search of the hidden eggs like so many ants over an ant hill, and even after the 400 were dragged from their hiding places the fun did not cease.

The hunt for the golden eggs was about the keenest thing ever seen around Richmond, and there was weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth among the 999 unsuccessful hunters when the fortunate kid dug up the golden fruit. The kids didn't do a thing but sit down and eat the eggs they had found after the chase.

The traffic on the Forest Hill car line was the heaviest of any day since last summer, and in honor of the occasion the car company put on the first open cars of the season. Not many stores in the Southside closed yesterday for Easter Monday, but a few gave holiday, as did the schools. The kids that didn't go fishing or Easter egg hunting in Capitol Square went to Forest Hill.

In Police Court.
Mary Cheatham and Ned Winston, both colored, were fined $5 and costs each yesterday in the Police Court, Part 2, for the fight they engaged in Saturday night.

John Robison, colored, was fined $2.50 and costs by Justice Maurice.

James Jones, colored, charged with fighting in the streets, asked that his case be continued until April 27.

The case of M. W. Roberts, a boiler-maker, charged with assaulting Benjamin Griffin, was continued until April 19.

Cases Set for Trial.
The regular April session of the Hustings Court, Part 2, was convened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock by Judge E. H. Wells. The following cases were set for trial:

J. S. Wakefield against R. L. Mahaley, April 24.

Robert Lumpkin against Annie Opleman, April 26.

H. A. Rowan against L. L. Nanco, American Underwriters against Eugene L. Griffin, April 27.

Thomas G. Powell against the city of Manchester, May 5.

Ohio Steam Laundry Machinery Company against the Allan & Hutchinson Company, May 8.

Lewis Steln against the Virginia Iron and Metal Company, June 5.

There are many other heavy damage suits and assessments proceedings that remain to be set for trial.

Funeral of Mrs. Williamson.
The funeral of Mrs. Emma J. Williamson, of 102 West Fourteenth Street, who died Sunday morning in her home, took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Bainbridge Street Baptist Church. The interment was made in Maury Cemetery. The Rev. J. W. Durham conducted the services.

Mrs. Williamson had been ill since last December, and her death was not unexpected. She left four daughters and one son. The active pall-bearers were J. E. Davidson, W. T. Davidson, John Utz, Wellington Brands, Peachie Vaughn and E. G. Kidd.

The honorary pall-bearers were R. C. Broadbent, F. A. Lamb, Dr. M. P. Coffman and P. D. Jones.

Mrs. C. F. Tucker, of Danville, who has been visiting J. T. Willard, has returned to her home.

Railroad Orders Keep Up.
New York, April 17.—There are indications that railroad orders for equipment and supplies are less reduced than current reports reveal. The rumor that the St. Paul system has contracted with the Illinois Steel Company for 100,000 tons of heavy rails for 1911, while lacking official confirmation, is accepted as correct. Other rails sales last week aggregated about 25,000 tons. The Pittsburg and Lake Erie closed for 2,000, and the Virginian Railway ordered 1,000 steel cars.

The Western Maryland has contracted for thirty-five locomotives, the Florida East Coast, for five engines, and the Chicago and Northwestern has virtually closed for thirty locomotives. Bridge orders were less than 4,000 tons last week.

Specifications for light products decreased, especially for tin plate, and need of business by some independent companies was expressed in concessions in prices for billets, steel bars, steel sheets and iron and steel bars.

On the other hand, specifications for plates and shapes from car and locomotive companies were more satisfactory.

March orders booked by the Steel Corporation were within 25,000 tons of last year's.
